Miss Dorothy Campbell Defeats Mrs. Caleb F. Fox by S Up and 2 to Play -Mrs. Barlow Earns the Other Bracket by Disposing of Miss Pheips

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Many were the glances of apprehension this evening diected at the English flag fluttering by courtesy over the Merion Cricket Club for Miss Dorothy Campbell, who travelled 3,000 miles to have a try at the women's national golf championship, had worked her way to the final round. Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of the home club is the only barrier intervening between the plucky Scotch girl and the coveted title. Should Mrs. Barlow win the final to-morrow the Robert Cox trophy will remain here. Even so it cannot be said that the final will have much of an Even so it cannot American flavor, for as Miss Campbell laughingly remarked, "It's Ireland and

There is no denying that, for Mrs. Barlow a native of Ireland, and furthermore, learned to play golf in England. Even so her game has vastly improved since she began playing in this country some ten years ago, and in that respect at least her game is American. Mrs. Barlow earned her place in the final bracket by decisively defeating Miss M. W. Phelps of Boston to the tune of 6 up and 5 to play, while Miss Campbell won by a 3 and 2 margin over Caleb F. Fox of Huntingdon Valley.

The morning matches drew the largest gathering of mainline Philadelphia society folk seen this week. With the enviable reputation of Miss Campbell ever before them the gallery naturally paid close attention to the champion of Great Britain, and Mrs. Fox. Although never a national title holder, the Philadelphia woman also has a record to be proud of, for during the last ten years she has been runnerup once and a semi-finalist on three other occasions. The fact that the Huntingdon Valley matron had so decisively disposed of Miss Frances Teacher, the former Scottish champion, in the previous round, led not a few to expect a stirring match. thering of mainline Philadelphia society macher, the former Scottsia Chambion, in the previous round, led not a few to expect a stirring match.

Off the tee Mrs. Fox suffered little if any by comparison, but when it came to the approaches the difference was apparent. On the whole Miss Campbell's putting was the more deadly though the rosy cheeked Briton did slip up on a couple of occasions. To start the match Mrs. Fox lost the first hole because of an approach which fell a triffe green shy. Miss Campbell, making no mistakes, got a good 4. A pulled ball to the rough from the next tee made it necessary for the British champion to play short on her second, but Mrs. Fox with a lucky brassey shot that hit a limb of a tree and then rolled as if possessed a charm to the edge of the green, won in 4 to 5.

The short third, always a poor hole, again bothered Miss Campbell. Her tee shot, a triflejpulled, found the road, and after one ineffectual effort to get out she picked up. They halved the next hole, although Miss Campbell not only went out of bounds on her second, but capped the climax by taking Caree puts. A flubbed second shot and three puts were the mistakes charged to Mes. For three puts were the mistakes charged to Mrs. Fox.

Thereafter for three holes Mrs. Fox played raggedly so that the other was enabled to win them in rapid succession and become 2 up. Although she topped her second, Mrs. Fox won the eighth in 4 to 5, Miss Campbell again taking three putts. The foreign golfer also made a poor approach to the ninth and lost that as well. This made it a case of all square at the turn, the strokes reading 45 to 47 in favor of Mrs. Fox.

If Miss Campbell had not played like her usual self up to the turning point, there were no signs of unsteadiness thereafter, although the fickle goddess did favor her at the tenth, where her second shot ran over the bridge which spans the brook guarding the green. Not so her opponent, who got into the water. With that hole in her pocket, so to speak, Miss Campbell proceeded to win the eleventh in 5 and 6, where Mrs. Fox topped her second, and the next, because the Philadelphia woman got trapped again. Miss Campbell, by the way, brought off a goed putt for a 5.

Now three down, it looked like a forlorn hope for Mrs. Fox, but the heroine of a hundred hard fought matches, stuck to her guns. She would have won the thirteenth had not he other made one of those exceptional recoveries for which she is famous. Miss Campbell got in the ditch on her drive and dropping back for the usual penalty stroke, laid the next two holes in par fours and the sixteenth in five, thereby leaving Miss Campbell:

Other Mrs. Fox to holes in par fours and the sixteenth in five, thereby leaving Miss Campbell a winner, 3 and 2.

The card was:

Miss Campbell:

Other for the ditch on her drive and the sixteenth in five, thereby leaving Miss Campbell:

Mrs. Pox:

In the meantime Mrs. Barlow and Miss. Phelps were settling their argument. After the first few holes, however, the outcome was never in doubt, as the Boston girl way off her game Miss.

Mrs. Barlow: Out... Miss Pheips: Out ... Barlow: In Miss Phetps:

The women teamed up in four ball four-somes in the afternoon and did good work. Mrs. Fox, nothing daunted by her earlier downfail, played with Miss L. A. Wells of Boston and the pair won with a best ball of Southrons with claymores on a border battlefield, taking four of the first five holes. Aleck Smith won the opening hole in 3, Strong falling by an inch to halve with him. The next they won was the 310 yard third, where the tall and imperturbable Mackie ran down a long put for 3 Mackie's par 4 alse won the fourth. Smith was the only one to land safely on the 160 yard fifth green and he won the hole in 3. The Englishmen scored for the only time going out on the seventh hole, 391 yards, both Strong and Vardon doing a 4, their rivals both being in trouble from their tee shots. Halving on the eighth and ninth the Scota were 3 up at the turn, to which their best ball was 34.

at the turn, to which their best ball was 34

Three all square holes began the homeward trip, although the eleventh, if Mackie's silced drive had not rebounded into the course from a tree, would have been a win for the Britishers, but Vardon's fine put landed the thirteenth for them in 3. They lost back the advantage at the fifteenth, where by short approaches they failed to gain the 4s needed. Another 3 by Vardon won the sixteenth. The home hole, a hard enough 4, was won in 3 by Mackie on a seven foot put. The Scots were 70 on their best ball and still leading by three holes.

After luncheon Smith, who had led in the earlier scoring with 78, made a runaway race of it and equalled Will Anderson's record of the course with 70. The English pair gained eight halves, but the only win outright was on the 180 yard fifth, where Vardon got a 2. The Scots had also two of the bye holes.

St. Louis, Mo. Oct. 8.—Christian Kenny, who defeated Chick Evans yesterday, to-day won the Centennial Association golf trophy by beating Harry Potter 2 up in thirty-six holes. Mr. Kenny recently won the Missouri State title and now has a monopoly on the local titles. Ralph McKittrick put out Carl Hiepho in the consolation, 7 up and 6 in the final round.

FAST STEPPING AT LEXINGTON Jack McKerron Makes New Record for Johnston Stake.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8.-The Johnston Stake, for 2:24 class trotters, and the two minute pace were the features on the card to-day. Jack McKerron won the former easily after dropping the first heat to Oro Bellini, while The Eel was the best of the field of three which tried for honors in the pacing event. The record for the Johnston Stake was lowered one-quarter of a secon by Jack McKerron in the second heat, the son of John A. McKerron trotting the mile son of John A. McKerron trotting the mile in 2:08%. The best previous time was 2:08%, made by Allan Winter last year.
Six high class horses bid for honors in the 2:10 class trot, but Demarest, driven by Ed Geers, was easily the best of the field and took the event in straight heats. This was the first win of the meeting for the silent reinman from Tennessee and his victory was greeted with round after round of applause.

LEADING TURFMEN DECIDE TO REMAIN LOYAL TO LOCAL TRACKS

Club at Pimilico, opening on Saturday, October 23, and closing on Monday, Novemof the coming session at Jamaica and the The Pimlico people are trying hard to induce horsemen to turn their backs on the local racing associations, but judging from the attitude of leading owners there will not be much of a defection. Attention not be much of a defection. Attention has already been called to the liberality providing continuous sport in spite of the most unfavorable circumstances, a policy adopted wholly in response to a general demand from horsemen for chances to maintain their racing establishments without financial loss. The fact that Jamaica and Aqueduct, which did not open their gates in the spring because of the Jockey Club's decision to move slowly at the time, have arranged fall meetings, with valuable stakes and purses offered, has further convinced both owners and racegoers that the local tracks are entitled to loyal support. The money offered in bulk by Jamaica and Aqueduct, also by Empire City, winds up the local campaign with six days, is further proof that the welfare of turf-men has not been overlooked by the New

But by stick- Sale of a $300,000 Mercantile Building ing to the game right up to the end of the campaign on November 15, it is argued, the horsemen would deserve recognition again next season and would also convince the Jockey Club that they intended to aid the turf governors in the long uphill fight to restore racing to its former popularity. Persons identified with the New York tude of Pimlico last spring when it was said that the Baltimore track was practically ready to cut away from the rule of the of the turf in this country. At the last moment, however, Pimlico saw the handwriting on the wall and renewed its allegian ce to the Jockey Club, which suddenly displayed signs of its former vigorous ts own cance, racing men say, and can draw upon the horsemen who have been operating on the Canadian circuit all season for support, without attempting to weaken the strength of the racing material needed to keep the New York tracks above water. While inducements have been offered to some of the biggest stables here to race at Baltimore, it may be said that so far all of them have decided to remain loyal to the appreciation of the way the local track owners have stood by them in the presen

Agents of the Jacksonville track, which will conduct a iong winter meeting, are in town with stake books and entry blanks. The Jacksonville track, begun a year ago, has been completed and the promoters any it will provide plenty of good sport. As racing in California appears to be an uncertain proposition it is believed that horsemen who do not take part in the winter meeting at Juarez, Mexico, will take their stables to Florida. Poolroom men say they will do business exclusively on the Jacksonville meeting, as it will be possible to get information and results from that city in much quicker time than from Mexico. For that matter it is said that a noted poolroom syndicate which makes a business of cornering racetrack data has been induced to aid the Jacksonville project in more ways than one. The Florida track has good backing and the men who are promoting it say there will be no interference by the authorities with open bookupaking.

James R. Keene has about twenty-five yearlings that will probably race here next season. They have been nominated for practically all the rich stakes to be decided in 1919 and include the following:

In appealing from the decision of President Heydler, who has thrown out Brooklyn's protest of a game won recently by the Cubs at Washington Park, President Ebbets is quoted as saying that as many wagers were made that his team would finish sixth or better in the National League race the matter is of vital importance. In view of the fact that the National League's constitution frowns upon gambling and betting of all kinds Mr. Ebbets, if he has been quoted correctly, may find that the board of directors will not regard his protest with favor. Mr. Heydler's decision is based upon the rules of the game and good judges say he will be sustained.

The "farming" of players by major league clubs may result in some new legislation before another season rolls around. When clubs "rexerve" as many as fifty players, half of whom are purposely "covered up" for minor league teams, the evil needs to be checked, it is argued. The reserge lists of both major leagues which have just been filed contain the names of enough players to corner the cream of the talent. Persons who have made a study of this question say that no club should be permitted to have more than thirty players under reserve and that during the regular season the teams should be limited to twenty men each. As a matter of fact the opinion prevails that the major league teams have too many players for their own good and that better results would be attained by a general curtailment. Thousands of dollars were wasted during the last season by carrying superfluous material which consumed unnecessary salaries and travelling expenses. Several leading magnates are said to be ready to begin a fight for better conditions. The "farming" of players by major league
